File Locker Product Key

KEYMACRO is a Windows utility program that encrypts a selected file or folder, and sets a master key (password) in order to access them. It is also possible to create a macro that will open the file whenever a specific event occurs. The program is a port of the original KMACRO software developed by Takao Nishimura, and was first released in the KOffice project in the KOffice 1.0 release. The name KeyMACRO, however, has not been changed. KeyMACRO is free, has no limits on the number of files and folders that can be encrypted, and it supports files up to 4 GB in size. An option has been added to store the encryption key in the registry so that it can be easily accessed by the user. There is also a "Run as Administrator" option available. It is not, however, enabled by default. The program is written in C/C++, supports Unicode encoding, and is available in five languages: English, Japanese, Chinese, Russian and Spanish. KeyMACRO is distributed under the GNU GPL license. The program runs in Windows XP, Vista, 7, 8, 8.1 and 10 (32- and 64-bit) and requires only 512 MB of free RAM. It is not compatible with Vista 32-bit or Windows XP. It should be noted that it is not compatible with Windows Vista x64 Edition. However, there are a few compatibility fixes available in the Internet which may help overcome these problems. KeyMACRO Features: Support for password-protected folders and files of any size up to 4 GB. Ability to specify a unique filename when opening the encrypted file. Ability to save the encryption key to the registry. Ability to run the program in a completely background mode. Ability to use custom search domains. Ability to open files with a "hotkey". Ability to encrypt files and folders with the help of a macro (hotkey). Ability to encrypt files with a standard encryption algorithm (AES) or with a custom-made encryption algorithm (such as RC4, AES-256, etc.). Ability to create encrypted files using a standard encryption algorithm (AES). Ability to create encrypted files using a custom-made encryption algorithm (such as RC4, AES-256, etc.). Ability to add the "__macro" or "__master" keyword to the filename of the encrypted file. Ability to use different

File Locker is a small software application developed specifically for helping you encrypt private files with the aid of a master password. The program makes use of the RC4 encryption algorithm. Clean looks It takes nothing more than a simple and quick installation process in order to gain access to the GUI. The layout looks easy to decode so you are not going to spend a lot of time tweaking the dedicated parameters. A help manual is not available. However, you can manage to configure encryption tasks on your own. A wizard-like approach is implemented for helping you encrypt or decrypt files by simply following the step-by-step instructions. Encryption capabilities File Locker offers you the possibility to set up a master password when you run it for the first time. The master password is needed to gain access to the program's interface. What's more, you are allowed to import files that you want to encrypt or decrypt using only the built-in browse button (the drag-and-drop support is not implemented). The tool lets you clear the list with items with a single click. The encrypted files have a different file extension so they cannot be opened with a dedicated program. In order to decrypt items successfully, you simply need to specify the password-protect file. File Locker does not let you set up individual passwords for each file that you want to lock. It makes use only of the master password. Tests have pointed out that File Locker carries out encryption/decryption jobs quickly and without errors. It does not eat up a lot of CPU and memory resources so the overall performance of the computer is not hampered.
